Family Violence in Wyandot County

These data describe common types of violence perpetrated by family members or caregivers in our county each year. We present the best available, most recent estimates. Nonetheless, our figures are conservative and represent only part of the burden family violence places on our families and communities. All figures are estimates or annual averages.

- It is difficult to measure the true prevalence of family violence; many victims never come to the attention of authorities.
- Reports to local children’s service agencies typically exceed the estimated number of abused or neglected children. This is likely due to multiple reports filed for a single child. Also, many children are placed in custody for reasons other than abuse or neglect (e.g., delinquency).
- n/a = figure not available because of missing data.
- Residents use domestic violence shelters in other counties.
- Elder abuse/neglect figures exclude self-neglect and victims <60 years old. (LTC = long term care)

This profile is part of an 88-county series provided by the Ohio Family Violence Prevention Project – a collaborative project of the Health Policy Institute of Ohio and the Ohio State University College of Public Health with support from the HealthPath Foundation of Ohio. - new cancer cases: 86
- motor vehicle crash injuries: 14

seniors (age 60+, est. #/year)
- Mean annual rate of petitions for civil protection orders, per 10,000 adults, Wyandot County, 2000-2008
  - Mean: 23.1
  - State mean: 21.6

- Civil protection order petitions (per 10,000 adults)
  - Wyandot County: 23.1
  - Mean of 28 non-Appalachian rural counties: 18.4
  - State mean: 21.6

- Reports of abuse, neglect or exploitation in LTC facilities (per 100 resident beds)
  - Wyandot County: 1.7
  - State mean: 2.3

- Wyandot County has about the same rate of petitions for civil protection orders (CPO’s) compared to similar counties in Ohio.
- Wyandot County has too few cases to calculate a rate of reports of abuse, neglect or exploitation in LTC facilities.
- Differences in data collection limit our ability to compare other indicators of family violence across counties.

How do we compare to other counties?

Is family violence increasing?

It is hard to say. Some data sources suggest family violence is increasing; others suggest it is stable or decreasing. Within a county, changes over time are largely due to changes in victims’ ability to access services. This graph, for example, suggests no significant change in petitions for CPO’s in our county. This trend could reflect no changes in the awareness or ability of victims to request CPO’s. For a discussion of when differences are noteworthy, please see the introduction.
